

END

Raindrops fall above my bed
As I look to the pillow where you laid your head
It's been a few weeks but the cut is just as deep
I try to close my eyes and sleep
But this flashback's coming over me
Of us laying underneath the sky the other day

When you said that I was beautiful
And you said I was your friend
But you also said you thought that this should end

(Chorus)

Well what am I supposed to think as I'm laying here?
Now I'm questioning if any of this was real
Did you mean it when you told me that I was your everything?
Did it hurt your heart to wipe away my tears?

Time has passed and time's gone by
Since you looked at me with that look in your eye
I guess I should have noticed when the spark was gone
When you didn't call me late at night
When you didn't want me to turn off the light
Cause you didn't want to go to bed anymore

But you said that I was beautiful
And you said I was your friend
But you also said you thought that this should end

(Chorus)

And I'll find someone who'll love me like you did
It may take a while but I know it will be worth it
But for now I still just can't get over you
And the words I said before remain true

Well what supposed to think as I'm laying here?
'Cause for me, my love, it was always real
And I meant it when I told you that you were my everything
And it broke my heart when you left me there in tears
